

Geography

Geography is taught through topics that focus on environmental issues, the study of places and the human and physical processes, which shape them and the people who live in them. Skills and knowledge are taught through first-hand experience wherever possible allowing children to develop appropriate fieldwork skills. There is a general progression of countries/ areas studied being further away from the UK as the children move through the school.